

Brides love classic, vintage-inspired hairstyles

"Uncomplicated, simple, natural – that's what many brides are looking for these days when it comes to their wedding day look," explains Michael Di Tacchio, stylist and owner of Michael's Hair Studio. "A return to vintage-inspired styles, antique hair accessories and classic looks is really hot right now. And it suits so many brides perfectly!"

Of course everything starts with the dress, and it's important for your hairstylist to see the dress, so he can get a feeling for the style you want for your big day. Michael also advises all of his bridal clients to bring pictures to show him hairstyles they like. This will be Michael's fifth season of styling the fashion models' hair at the Ajax Wedding Show. Stop by before the show to see how these professionals work their magic and get some styling ideas for your big day! "We always look forward to this show," he says. "We love to inspire future brides and we find that we are inspired by them, too."

Whether you desire show-stopping glamour, a vibrant and colourful look or an elegant, classic style, Michael and his team of style experts will create the perfect look to suit your wedding day style and your facial features – so you look your very best on your special day!

There are so many hairstyle options to choose from. Consider walking down the aisle with soft waves or braiding topped off with the perfect headpiece or a glitzy hair accessory. "The birdcage hairstyle comes from a '40s-era design and it looks simply stunning," says Michael. "Very dramatic with a very short veil that demurely hides the eyes. It has just enough flair to make a statement without being overdone."

"Brides are asking us to incorporate lace from the wedding gown into the hairstyle for a truly unique look," says Michael. "We can mix lace into braiding or create a custom headpiece with it."

"Soft waves are definitely still very popular, whether hair is off to one side, partially up, all down or even a classic look with soft texture to give a modern touch to the bride," explains Michael.

Since every wedding and every bride is different, Michael's Hair Studio has a variety of bridal packages – one to suit your needs. At Michael's Hair Studio, you will always find that stylists take great pride in being part of your special day by creating a beautiful hair style for the bride, her attendants and the mothers of the bride and groom.
